FOLDING THE FIRE FIEND.

A Good Thing That Pushes Itself Along In a Beautiful Way.

A merchant of Gowanda has invented a most remarkable apparatus for saving stocks of goods from fire. Instead of putting out the fire, the apparatus opens the front of the store, and the contents, cases and shelving roll out into the street into their owner's arms.

The shelving and counters in the store are all portable and mounted on rollers. Attached to the rear end of the shelving is a cable which runs forward and over a wheel below the floor in the front of the store. To this end of the cable are suspended weights sufficiently heavy to overcome the shelving, cases and goods in them. A brake device, keeping the weights from setting the shelving going. Attached to the lever of the brake is a combustible cord which passes upward into the store and is carried along the walls and ceiling, where it will be quickly ignited in case of fire.

The sundering of the cord looses the brake, the weights bear on the cable, and the shelves start helter skelter for the front of the building. At the same time the windows and doors open automatically outward, and the entire contents of the store are dumped on the sidewalk in a jiffy. To frustrate the designs of fire thieves the shelves fold up when they reach the street, presenting only blank wood and glass.

Those who have seen the apparatus tested say that it works admirably. One night a mouse found something palatable in the brake cord and gnawed it in two, whereupon, much to its consternation, the furniture, boxes and shelves, with one accord, began a swift movement forward, and an automatic alarm attached to the machine began to rouse all the inhabitants of Gowanda, the hour being 2 o'clock in the morning.

The ingenious inventor was one of the first on the scene, and his disgust at being routed out by a false alarm was greatly mitigated by the spectacle of the smooth working of his machine. It seems to be a good thing and pushes itself along with no help.—Buffalo Courier.

PRIVATE TELEPHONES.

New York Millionaires' Call Numbers Are Not Public Property.

There are some very aristocratic telephone owners in the city, but a study of the telephone directory supplied for the use of the general public does not reveal this fact. This is done purposely. It is no use getting mad if, when you ask for Mr. Croesus Vanderbilt's telephone number the girl at the other end asks if you don't know it. When you say that you don't know it or try to fool her and say you did have it, but lost the memorandum, she will answer back, "We cannot give you Mr. Croesus Vanderbilt's house unless you know the number."

The fact of it is the girl would be breaking strict rules of the company if she gave this information. There are a good many millionaires and prominent society families who have telephones in their residences, but they are for private use. Only the friends of the head of the house and a few other persons know the number. The mistress of the mansion leaves the number with her friends, and in exchange receives their numbers. She also leaves her number with the head of the household where she happens to be on the managing committee.

This exclusive system is adopted in order that outsiders cannot annoy Mr. Millionaire by ringing him up on the telephone. The men who have telephones put into their palaces do so with the proviso that their names and telephone numbers shall not appear in the directory.—New York Herald.

Miss Vanderbilt's Retort.
An amusing story about Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt is told by one of her school friends. It happened several years ago, when Miss Vanderbilt was in short dress, and the desirability of standing well with prominent people had not yet crossed the minds of her schoolmates.

The dispute started over the monthly report book. Miss Vanderbilt's marks were higher than any of the other children's in the group.

"I don't care," exclaimed one of them, "the teachers favor you 'cause you're rich, but my father says your grandfather used to sell matches. There—didn't he?"

And Miss Vanderbilt, who was possessed of rare dignity, held up her curly head a trifle higher and answered quietly:

"I really don't know. But if he did I'm sure they were good matches."—New York Herald.

The Roman Helmet.
The Roman helmet of the average size weighed about two pounds and was thickly lined with felt, so that a severe blow could be borne without serious inconvenience. These helmets were intolerably hot, however, and were never worn during the march or at any time save on parade, sentry or guard duty, or in the immediate presence of the enemy.

His Prize.
Father (who has given his consent)—I hope, young man, that you know the value of the prize you will get in my daughter?

Young Man—Well—er—no, sir. I don't know the exact value, but, as near as I can find out, it's in the neighborhood of $5,000.—London Answers.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Id Fashioned compound cathartic pills, blue pills, calomel or other mercurial preparations, should not be used in these days of enlightened medical science, when it is so easy to get a purely vegetable.

Dr. Pierce was first to introduce a Little Pill to the American people. Many have imitated them, but none have approached his "Pleasant Pellets" in purity, or value, for all laxative and cathartic purposes.

Once used, they are Always in Favor.

Against Nature a little now and then, with a gentle, cleansing laxative, to checky removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels, toning up and invigorating the liver and quickening its tardy action, and you thereby remove the cause of a multitude of distressing diseases, such as headaches, indigestion, or dyspepsia, biliousness, pimples, blotches, eruptions, boils, constipation, piles, hemorrhoids and a host of numerous other ailments.

If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to subdue attacks of dangerous diseases.

That of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity, with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

They absolutely cure sick headache, biliousness, constipation, coated tongue, poor appetite, dyspepsia and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

A free sample of the "Pellets" (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

CARSON MINT SHORTAGE.

SECOND TRIAL OF JAMES HENRY —SIXTH DAY.

Prosecution Testimony—Shortage
Leakage and Stealage
Propositions.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)

CARSON CITY, December 7, 1896.
In his testimony yesterday afternoon Mr. Mason said that the first record of the bogus Bodie melt is in the Melt and Refiner's Department November 7, 1892, as gold deposit No. 77, from the Standard mine, Bodie.

When next do you find it? Is there any record in the Carson mint of this bogus melt?

Record is made of a melt of the same weight, but nothing "bogus" or "spurious."

These ten bars and a piece in court comprise the so-called spurious or counterfeit melt.

Is it a good or bad counterfeit?

I am not prepared to answer that, not being a professional counterfeiter myself.

Could you distinguish it and designate it as counterfeit by its color?

I do not think I could distinguish it from pure silver, the proportion of gold in it being so small. Even were it 300 or 400 fine it would not be easily noticeable, except by comparison or weight with other bars. Thus it is that a bogus melt or bar could pass from one annual settlement to another without detection, except by actual assay. It is stated that Mr. Connors in handling the bars in the vault at the mint shortage investigation incidentally got hold of one of these and remarked that it could not be of the fineness called for on its face.

By Clarke—Is it not a fact that the records of the Melt and Refiner show that the genuine Bodie melt was entered and carried forward instead of the spurious?

Well, I believe I think so.

You have stated that there was an apparent shortage in 1894. What did you mean by it?

I meant that it apparently occurred in that year, but being in practical connection with the previous year it did not in reality occur in 1894.

Witness explained to the jury the process of melting and putting crude bullion into bars and the regulation allowance of loss or wastage in so doing.

Clarke—Mr. Mason, is this the spurious melt you see before you?

I recognize it sir, and this is the Melt and Refiner's settlement book, where in 1893 it is recorded as silver deposit 134, 2,183 ounces.

Please show the book and a bar to the jury.

The witness proceeded to do so, pressing closely in front, explaining in a low tone of voice the book and bar connection.

Coffin—I object, Your Honor, to any such private conversation with the jury. It is against the strict order of the court in public or private.

Clarke—That's so. And attorneys from both sides hustled to the front to see fair play.

Down came the court from the bench and interposed his reasonable form to the rescue.

Gentlemen, I call you squarely and imperatively to order; we have been interrupted enough and this thing has to cease or I will adopt drastic measures to compel proper observance.

The proper showing to the jury was quietly done and business was calmly resumed.

Mason—I simply detected this spurious melt when I came to it in the course of my investigation by assaying it.

W. C. Noteware, Chief Clerk, followed Mason, his testimony being principally confined to what was shown by the books and records of the mint. And he occupied the witness stand and the attention of the jury and the court and audience with a very elaborate and wearisome, yet requisite, mass of figures and statistics from the books of the mint and its departments with which he is exceedingly familiar. The principal point worked upon was to trace out the devils and difficult record of the noted spurious melt from the Standard mine, Bodie, which out of a stronger figure in this mint shortage investigation than all other bullion circumstances and consolidated melts put together.

By Clarke—Mr. Noteware, have you traced the records of this spurious melt?

I have. It first appeared Nov. 7, 1892, as gold deposit No. 77, in the name of C. H. Peters for the Standard Mining Co., Bodie, 2,046 ounces, and it was recorded as a gold deposit, value $21,539.62. It came from the refining and assay department with its value stamped upon it and its number, 77 gold deposit. It subsequently appears recorded as silver deposit No. 164, having the same weight but $20,000 short in value. It is so recorded in the computation book, and in the transfers from one administration to another, including the annual settlement of June, 1894.

The moulds from the deposit melting room with the bricks or shoe bars fitting perfectly into them were exhibited to the jury, showing that they were cast in that department of the mint.

Witness stated that according to record this melt must have been made while Zabriske was Melt and Refiner, with John T. Jones as Assistant Melt and Refiner, which position Jones con-

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Govt Report

The accounts of the Carson Mint and U. S. Mint Director Proctor at Washington are balanced with "embezzlement" placed into the figures on the side of this mint, so to remain until further developments and advice.

Witness stated relative to the mutilation of the combination or consolidated melts record book that ten pages were removed, including the destroying of tracing to the spurious melt. There is no record anywhere of when it went to the refinery or when it got back.

By Coffin—The mutilation of this book doesn't affect Harris, does it?

I should say not.

What became of gold bar No. 165 of forty-one ounces?

It was in the vault last February but got out some how and hasn't been seen since. It was small and there was nothing to prevent somebody from slipping it into his pocket.

Hirsch Harris, Melt and Refiner, testified and sustained strong cross-examination relative to the books and accounts of his department. He positively denied having to do with the mutilation of that combination melts book which came to him from his predecessor, told of his first suspicion and detection of the shortage and his informing the Government of it, his connection with Jones as Assistant Melt and Refiner, and was specially cross-examined by Woodward, at considerable length, acknowledging to more that he didn't know than that he did.

At 5 p. m. court adjourned till 10 o'clock a. m. next Monday.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

Items From Here, There and Everywhere.

The delinquent tax list in Douglas county is less than $100.

Frank Phalon of Sprucemont, Elko county, was thrown from a horse a few days ago and sustained injuries from which the doctors fear he will not recover.

The United States army consists of 25,358 men, of whom 20,584 are effective for field service. The total number of commissioned officers is 2,156, about one officer to ten men.

The Virginia Chronicle says: The County General Fund is over $20,000 in debt now, and if the courts decide against the present high valuation of property, the present inadequate tax revenue will be reduced to such an extent next year that the fund will become hopelessly insolvent.

W. B. Bourne, one of the principal owners of the Empire mine at Grass Valley, won $78,000 throwing dice in San Francisco the other day. Full particulars found in the San Francisco Call are that the amounts staked ranged along from $500, $1,000, then up to $5,000 on a single throw, finally reaching $18,000 a side.

The Genoa Courier says L. S. Ezell has uncovered a genuine bonanza of large proportions three or four miles northeast of the Zirn mine in Pine Nat. The people of Gardnerville are wild with excitement and it is half as big as reported the Pine Nat hills will soon be covered again with prospectors and claim hunters.

The Genoa Courier says Drake, the 19-year-old son of C. W. Drake of Genoa, was engaged in opening a box of raisins and used a hatchet to raise the lid, pounding on the poll of the hatchet with a hammer. A piece of steel flew from the hatchet and struck him in the eye. He did not think the injury serious, but the next day he found that the eye ball had been punctured. He went to San Francisco for treatment and the injured eye had to be removed to save the other eye.

The Lecture Last Evening.

Rev. S. Unsworth delivered a learned lecture at the Opera House last night, the subject being "The Evolution of Language." There was an appreciative audience. In opening Mr. Unsworth gave the conclusions of Drummond and other scientists, showing that primal man had little to say about things in general. That his language must have been simply signs, grunts and monosyllables. That each word formed a sentence. Inflection was unknown or forms of speech. He illustrated on the blackboard the evolution of the Chinese language and other tongues. Many sly bits of fun and dry humor were interjected. He was frequently applauded during the address.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

A NEVADA SON WINS ONE OF CALIFORNIA'S DAUGHTERS.

Frank Amos Barnes of Reno Weds Miss Lillian Shorb of Los Angeles.

One of the most elaborate weddings that ever occurred in the city of Los Angeles took place on the 4th inst. at the Church of the Unity in that city. The contracting parties were Frank A. Barnes, formerly of Reno, and Miss Lillian Shorb, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Shorb, prominent people of Southern California. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with appropriate floral pieces, besides cut flowers in profusion and festoons made up of natural orange blossoms, smilax, maidenhair, fern, etc. The entrance to each pew in the two main aisles was decorated with a cluster of pink roses tied with white satin ribbon. Potted plants occupied every available space. Over six hundred invitations had been issued and at the appointed hour it was demonstrated that nearly all had been accepted. Several old Renoites, who are now residents of Los Angeles were present and were honored guests of the occasion.

Rev. J. S. Thompson, the pastor of the church, conducted the impressive and beautiful ceremony which joined Frank and Lillian "until death do you part." Four young gentlemen friends of the young couple, viz: Messrs James Slauson, S. Dewey, D. V. Dugue and E. DeGarno did the honors of the occasion.

Promptly at the hour named the bridal party consisting of Mr. Shorb and the bride, and Mrs. Shorb and Mrs. J. G. Law, a sister of the groom, preceded by the ushers and the bride's only attendant, Little Miss Edith Walsh, a beautiful little girl dressed as a flower girl and bearing two wands containing the two golden crowns to be used in the ceremony. The bridal party was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. C. McHenry. The bride was elegantly gowned in white bengal silk decorated with orange blossoms. The bridal veil, secured to the coiffure by a star of diamonds and pearls, a gift of the groom, and carrying a bouquet of white violets. The groom wore the regulation Prince Albert.

As the party moved down the aisle of the church, the big organ under the deft manipulation of Miss Mary Donohue pealed out the wedding march from Lohengrin. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party filed out of the church and took carriage for the residence of the bride's parents, where a bountiful wedding breakfast was served at which the bridal party, relatives of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends were present.

The residence was also elaborately decorated and the table service and decorations very elegant. One of Los Angeles' best caterers had charge of the details of the breakfast.

The bride is one of California's noblest women. In the city where she has spent her life she is very popular and while nature has endowed her with beauty and a lovable disposition, she is a practical and sensible girl and is a jewel of priceless value to this young man who has succeeded in making her his wife, and while many of his boyhood friends will wonder at his good fortune, they will extend the warmest of congratulations to the bride for capturing a Nevada boy of the character, worth and perseverance of Frank Barnes.

Every one in Reno knows Frank. He is a Reno production, born, raised and educated here. His family are among the oldest settlers and his father has always been one of Reno's most prominent citizens. Frank began practical life in Reno, having succeeded, after concluding his studies at the State University, in securing the position of accountant at the Riverside Mills, where he was employed for a long time. By his gentlemanly courtesy and exemplary habits he was recognized as one of Reno's best boys, and while his many friends regretted his departure from Reno they felt that his energy and perseverance would bring him recognition in a distant land. His latest move has proved this and his old friends wish he and his wife prosperity and happiness and the Journal joins them heartily as well as his old teacher, Wm. B. Daugherty, in the following lines:

Frank Barnes—Your invitation is at hand and congratulations herewith extended:

I will ask Magill the preacher, And the priest, if to be found, To kneel with your old teacher And pray for Frank A. Barnes.

If this fails to reach you, And doesn't offend your pride, The poet will join the preacher And pray for the winsome bride.

But please accept my blessing, Excuse me if I joked, And don't look over the traces When once securely yoked.

WM. B. DAUGHERTY.

The young couple were the recipients of many elegant and substantial wedding presents. They have gone to Coronado on a short wedding trip and will be home to their friends on Wednesday after January 1st on Adams and San Pedro streets, Los Angeles.

For the Ladies.

The Palace has a great special this week in new plaids, double width, at 20c a yard, so much used now for dresses and waists. They also received a full line of spangled gimps in every imaginable coloring, large and small buttons to match. Medallion and rhinestone buttons for trimmings, ornaments and pins. By yesterday's express they received new sealottes and fur capes, such as astrachan, wool seal, coney and Baltic seal.

Frank Heinz, who is in from his ranch fourteen miles north of town, says heavy rains fell there Thursday night and Friday morning. It also rained up in Long Valley, but south of Lemmon's valley the roads are dry. Mr. Heinz has a large number of fat porkers and next season he expects to be prepared to cure a large quantity of bacon and ham.

Mills of Texas has introduced a bill granting pensions to the widows of Mexican war veterans at the rate of $12 per month when such widows are destitute of the means of support. There are a few veterans of the Mexican war still remaining on this side of the Great Divide and all those of them who are destitute receive from the Government is the paltry sum of $96 a year.

And still the taxpayers do not know how 80,000 standard dollars of 1893, bearing the mark of the Carson Mint, got into the State Treasury. The Silver party, which the Wall Street auxiliaries in Nevada say is responsible for the dull times scarcity of money, the massacre of Christians in Turkey and everything else that is troubling the world, did not put those dollars in the Treasury as it had nothing to do with that institution at the time.

The Only

Great and thoroughly reliable building-up medicine, nerve tonic, vitalizer and

Blood Purifier

Before the people today, and which stands preeminently above all other medicines, is

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

It has won its hold upon the hearts of the people by its own absolute intrinsic merit. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story:

Hood's Cures

Even when all other preparations and prescriptions fail.

"Formerly every year I had an eruption on my body, and a kind of biting pain besides. I have had it now for four years every summer, but since I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have had no trace of it. I have taken seven bottles." FRANK FORTNA, 201 Black St., Denver, Colorado.

Every one in Reno knows Frank. He is a Reno production, born, raised and educated here. His family are among the oldest settlers and his father has always been one of Reno's most prominent citizens. Frank began practical life in Reno, having succeeded, after concluding his studies at the State University, in securing the position of accountant at the Riverside Mills, where he was employed for a long time. By his gentlemanly courtesy and exemplary habits he was recognized as one of Reno's best boys, and while his many friends regretted his departure from Reno they felt that his
